

Biography: Conrad P. Pritscher

His article, "Paying Attention" was recommended by the Pennsylvania State University Faculty Development Center as one of the ten best articles on learning. He taught graduate Philosophy of Education at Bowling Green State University and is now Emeritus faculty. He also taught Multicultural Education, Educational Psychology, Explorations in Human Potential, Environmental Studies, and several other courses from 1971 to 2002. He is a graduate of the Gestalt Institute of Cleveland, Postgraduate Intensive Training Program. He is the author of numerous articles and author of Quantum Learning: Beyond Duality, Rodopi, 2001 (Value Inquiry Book Series) and Coauthor with George David Miller, On Education and Values, Rodopi, 1995. He writes a monthly column for the Bowling Green State University-BGSU News. He is a former President of the Ohio Valley Philosophy of Education Society, former Chair of the Bowling Green State University Human Relations Commission, Founder and former Chairman of The People for Racial Justice Committee. He has appeared on five local television programs and three radio programs. He is the former Vice President of the Northwest Ohio Fair Housing Center.

Look for Dr. Pritscher's new book, Reopening Einstein's Thought: About What Can't Be Learned From Textbooks, to be published in June 2008 by Sense publishers.