

Biographies:

Kristian Kirkwood is the past-chair of Graduate Studies in Education at Nipissing University. His research interests include research methodologies and students at-risk in the mainstream education system.